Paradox Spectra User Registry Map

It is very important to protect the privacy of the master code. The master code should not be given to people that do not have administrative authority for the security system.

Up to 48 codes can be programmed into your Paradox Spectra security system. The registry map below is provided for your convenience and should be kept up to date so that later administrative changes can be made properly. For security reasons, write only the user's name in the registry map and not his or her user access code.

Registry 001 contains the master code. Registries 002 and 003 are not typically used, so may be disregarded in most applications. Begin entering additional access codes in registries 004, 005, 006, etc. Registry 048 contains the duress code. You may change the duress code in registry 048 if you please, but do not assign registry 048 as a regular user access code.
